The Piper factory used this particular aircraft to gain FAA approval for the new avionics, and it comes loaded with almost every available option. Quite simply, this is the best-equipped Seneca in the world. Between Piper's certification flight testing and our post-delivery demo/ferry flights, N509NX currently has 65 hours TTSN. However, this new 2019 model Seneca comes with full two-year factory warranties on the airframe and avionics. Better yet, the Continental engines and McCauley propellers both come with extended five-year warranties.
